The way I want it to function, the button should disappear when the user holds their finger on it for 1 second (or more). As I checked on iOS 11 it still works the same. But when I press the iPhone button or press another button on the view that it is connected to, the button still stays visible until I swipe away the view. This is my code for the view: func loadEmployeeDetails() { let url = URL(string: "")! let request = URLRequest(url: url) request.httpMethod = "GET" request.setValue("AppToken", forHTTPHeaderField: "token") let session = URLSession.shared let dataTask = session.dataTask(with: request as URLRequest) { (data, response, error) in if let data = data { if let jsonDict = try? JSONSerialization.jsonObject(with: data, options: []) as? [String: Any] { let json = jsonDict as! [String: Any] for employee in json { let employee = employee as! [String: Any] if employee.keys.contains("name") && employee["name"]! != "" { print("Name: ", employee["name"]!) self.nameLabel.text = employee["name"]
