jpitz There is an exciting new feature called "Advertising Use". Let's say you have a website, not your own, that sells all kinds of crazy stuff, and that this is your main source of revenue, like ebay.com. A customer buys something with your site, and that generates some revenue. Now, let's say that, on this site, you want to display ads. If you have AdSense on the site, you can have these ads and get some revenue. With Advertising Use, now, let's say you write a different code that generates
