Now in the fight for the Prosperity Engine, you need your own fleet of starships to explore space and trade. The most powerful is the Condor - the flagship of the Ludi class. Feared by pirates and powerful enough to hold its own in a battle with a battlecruiser. As the game director at Amplitude Studios, Kjell Driver, told the press, "We've been building up the Prosperity Engine for more than three years now, and we are excited to finally see it in action. We've aimed to make Prosperity the ultimate space trading simulator for our gamers." One of the key features of the new expansion is the buildable space stations.

The Prospector Station can be built around other stations and it will provide additional features to players. The station is a fast mobile command point in need of supplies. You can play the game and experience the buildable stations. In Endless Space 2, we will take it further with the upcoming Distant Worlds 2 expansion.
