mightandmagicheroes6171 And here again. You can do the same on other computers if your settings match what they were. Along the way, he still doesn't know, so you'll have to talk to him. Also, don't forget that you will need to access the settings in order to change the settings you have already saved. After you go to the settings, you will need to select the tab called "System". After that, you will need to go to "General", "Network" and "Hardware".
