If you've got a problem, see the FAQ list below. If you have a suggestion, please send me an email. I'd appreciate it very much. If you've got a question you'd like to ask, feel free to send me an email. NewzScape FAQ: Q. What if I don't know what keywords I use and where I store them? A. There's an info window that will tell you which keywords you're currently tracking. Click the X button next to the screen's title to close it. If you'd like to set up keywords for someone else, type "help give" to a friend and he/she'll see the info box. If you want to know where you've got your keywords, click "info files" in the toolbox (or click the "i" next to the phrase "information") and it will open a window that will show you where you've stored your keywords. If you want to know which of your keywords are being tracked, click the "info" button next to the "unk" message in the main screen. Or click the "help" button in the toolbox to open the help screen. If you have a typo, a bug report, a suggestion, or a comment, please email me. Q. The help window says "file not found." What does this mean? A. Did you save the help document? Did you add it to the "Help Files" folder in the Tools control panel? Make sure that you use the correct file name, and don't leave spaces in your file names. Q. Is NewzScape free or do I have to buy it? A. NewzScape is a utility that will improve your life. I encourage you to at least download it, try it out for a few minutes, and then decide whether you like it enough to buy it. Note that you can choose to "Try it for 30 days before buying it", which gives you 30 days to decide whether you like it or not.

NewzScape

NewzScape is an easy to use automatic newsgroup binary downloader for power users. NewzScape has been changed to comply with the new Windows Vista security guidelines. NewzScape will now store most of its data in the "Application Data" folder. That is the "official" folder where programs are supposed to store such data. But NewzScape will not automatically move your current data there, so you must do it yourself. NewzScape has been changed to comply with the new Windows Vista security guidelines. NewzScape will now store most of its data in the "Application Data" folder. That is the "official" folder where programs are supposed to store such data. But NewzScape will not automatically move your current data there, so you must do it yourself. Many of you use hundreds of keywords to filter posts. NewzScape makes managing large numbers of keywords much easier. Those of you who use lots of Downloaders will now have more screen space due to NewzScape's new blade mode which lets you shrink your Downloaders to a much smaller size. NewzScape has a Coming-Soon window where you can quickly see what multi-part files are being worked on without having to look through thousands of files in your Parts folder. 0:00 NewsScape - Windows 2002/2003/2005/2008 NT/2000 NewsScape - Windows 2002/2003/2005/2008 NT/2000 NewsScape - Windows 2002/2003/2005/2008 NT/2000 No how-to for you today. What's New in the NewzScape?

NewzScape can search for and download newsgroups, binary files, multi-part files and articles. NewzScape features integrated searching for newsgroups, binary files and multi-part archives. Part file searching is now fast. NewzScape can download articles, binary files, multi-part archives and entire newsgroups from Usenet. NewzScape now has a coming-soon window that shows you what's downloading. Large files can be downloaded and displayed in the file download window. Downloading entire newsgroups has never been easier. NewzScape supports IP Blocking now. NewzScape is completely free. I'm making a Web interface. The Web site is fast, easy to use. NewzScape will run on any Windows 95, 98, NT, 2000 or XP machine. NewzScape is easy to use. There are only two parameters: 1. The NewzScape program. 2. A file directory containing parts and files. That's it. NewzScape automatically detects the type of file that you want to download. If NewzScape does not detect a file, it will look in each part directory you supply. It can automatically detect almost anything that the internet can put up: newsgroups, binary files, multi-part archives or articles. There is one exception: NewzScape can't automatically detect binary files if you supply Part files and a directory. To support the very large number of "search terms" that people use to filter newsgroups, I've changed NewzScape from using a single file to a directory structure similar to Unix. It looks like: The Newsgroups The Newsgroups/Directory is similar to a Unix file system. It will list the Groups, all the directories within the Groups, and all the files. The Newsgroups/Directory/Directory is similar to a Unix file system. It will list the Groups, all the directories within the Groups, all the sub-directories within the directories. The Newsgroups/Directory/file.archive is similar to a Unix file system. It will list the Groups, all the directories within the Groups, all the sub-directories within the directories, all the files, and the file.archive. All the files are listed under Newsgroups. If you want to see a list of all files, you can just look at the Newsgroups/
