There is no doubt in the importance of conserving the environment for the future generations. Thanks to Eden's Greenhouse garden at the Moller International Centre in Bangladesh, where students can interact, learn and experience the on-going environmental awareness campaigns and issues. The garden is equipped with water, rain and solar buckets to lessen water usage, as well as soil and tree drums to minimise wastage of water during the conservatory season. The garden was launched on 20 March 2019 as part of the International Youth Day celebration. The garden was created by the Eden's Greenhouse Society, an NGO, in collaboration with the Moller International Centre. At present, 15,000 students participate in environmental awareness programmes through the garden. The garden serves as a strategic way of spreading environmental education among students. Through the garden, the students can find out about the importance of conserving, and taking care of the environment for future generations. The garden also serves as a platform for direct interaction with the clients and the communities, to promote greater awareness and understanding of the importance of conserving the environment and its resources. with transition length τ_0 and relaxation time τ_{ast} in Eq. (1), m_{ast} is in-plane mass of monolayer, Γ_{FWHM} is full-width at half maximum of the resonance peak and ΔE is energy difference between two spin states. Spin state 1 (0) refers to the electron spin aligned (anti-aligned) with the external magnetic field. The vertical length of each dot is the quantum size effect.
