A parallax barrier (viewing panel) is generally known as a method for stereoscopically displaying an image. The parallax barrier is arranged over or under a screen of an image display device for producing a two-dimensional image. When the parallax barrier is located over the screen of the image display device, the parallax barrier splits the image for right and left eyes of a viewer into upper and lower images and those images are allowed to be seen by the right and left eyes, respectively. Thus, the viewer can watch the image from the stereoscopic point of view. When the parallax barrier is located under the screen of the image display device, the parallax barrier splits the image for the right and left eyes of the viewer into upper and lower images and those images are allowed to be seen by the right and left eyes, respectively. Thus, the viewer can watch the image from the stereoscopic point of view. However, the luminance of the image displayed on the screen of the image display device is too high and an illusion of reality for the image is too strong, although the viewer can watch the image stereoscopically by using the parallax barrier of this type. Accordingly, an object of the present invention is to provide an image display device capable of stereoscopically displaying an image in a manner suitable for stereoscopic watching for every eye on a screen of the image display device. To achieve the above object, according to one aspect of the present invention, there is provided an image display device having a screen. The screen displays an image as a two-dimensional image. The image display device further includes first and second barrier members arranged to be opposed to the screen and having at least a parallax for dividing the image for the right and left eyes of a viewer to allow the image to be divided into an upper image and a lower image. The image display device further includes a controller which controls an image to be displayed on the screen in accordance with a viewing position of the viewer. The controller sets a parallax width of the parallax members at a predetermined value as the parallax. In the image display device having the screen, 09e8f5149f

They must be sterilized before the packaging has been completed. Before the packaging, the active substance-containing packing material is sterilized and packed. The packaging material in the form of an endless web is typically wound in a winding device and sterilized by the heat generated by the hot-air knife. The packaging material is then cut to form the packaging containers for the active substance. In order to achieve rapid and reliable sterilization of packaging material, automatic packaging machines are used. In such packaging machines, the packaging material is pre-cooked (prewarmed), usually with steam for about ten to twenty minutes before the packaging step. In the packaging step, the packaging material is filled with the active substance, for example a tablet, which is weighed out. For this purpose, packaging material is fed to the packaging machine. There, the preheated material is pressed between a filling head and a packaging head. An active substance pellet or tablet is then pressed between the two heads of the packaging machine. The processing speed in such a known packaging machine is typically between 5 and 60 m per minute. The packaging machines known from the state of the art require long pre-heating times, which limit the productivity of the machine. Accordingly, the object of the invention is to provide a packaging machine and packaging material for the packaging of active substances, and to provide a method for the packaging of active substances.I believe a lot of people still put too much importance on the boxing group. Yes, you should get group training but it is also important to have personal training. If you train with them, you train with the same people, so you gain a lot from these relationships but of course they only pay attention to them, which limits you. Thanks as always for the compliment. I do believe that being open to change is the best thing in order to become a better athlete.
