Multifunctional nanosized nanoreactors consisting of a hyaluronic acid (HA) shell and a  $\beta$ -cyclodextrin ( $\beta$ -CD) core are synthesized by layer-by-layer assembly and in situ co-crystallization. Based on these core-shell structures, we have developed a new strategy of combining the photodynamic therapy (PDT) drug and photosensitizers (PSs) into one single nanocarrier. The nanoparticles are highly stable in water and the in vivo pharmacokinetics and biodistribution are evaluated. Moreover, they are able to deliver both PSs and PTD drug simultaneously in a single nanoparticle platform, which effectively decreases the side effects of both the drugs and the treatment time. The nanoreactors can be effectively used as an effective drug delivery system for cancer treatment.Q: Preventing XSS in embeds with HTML5 video tag How do I prevent cross site scripting from HTML5 video tag? Is there any way to prevent XSS by using JavaScript and by pre-filtering all user input? A: Embeds are bad security. You are supposed to give the user a way to escape out of them and never just include the user's data directly in them. You could, for example, make a link that goes to an escape page and on that escape page you put a bit of javascript that figures out how to display your embeds. Another option is to use iframes instead. That's actually one of the best security practices for an embed that you can take advantage of. Q: Centre a nav bar in mobile I am trying to build a mobile website (responsive) and would like to centre a nav bar. The nav bar is horizontal now, but I would like it to centre if the screen width is less than 768px. .nav-center { display: table-cell; vertical 4bc0debe42
