DJI OS WAVÂ .Q: Copy files in folder only if number of files in folder matches number of files in source folder I have a batch file that runs a Java application to convert multiple numbers of files. I need to create a new batch file to run the Java application with the new numbers of files so the same amount of files are converted every time the batch file runs. The new batch file looks like this right now: cd aLocationFolder for /l %%i in (1, 1, %fileAmount) do ""C:\aLocationFolder\aProcess.exe"" %%i The first batch file looks like this: cd aLocationFolder for /l %%i in (1, 1, %fileAmount) do "C:\aLocationFolder\aProcess.exe" %%i With the first batch file, everything works fine. But the problem is that if the folder is empty, the batch file would still run anyway and that's what I don't want to happen. I know that for /l %%i in (1, 1, %fileAmount) do "C:\aLocationFolder\aProcess.exe" %%i would work if the folder did not contain any files. But if I change e79caf774b
