On Thursday, a Navy SEAL was involved in a crash in Virginia, after he was allegedly driving under the influence of alcohol, and the details surrounding the crash are already making the rounds online. But it's not the drunk driving allegation that is the key to the story; it's the fact that the SEAL is a Muslim. ROBERT DALLAS IS RELEASED FROM NAVY RESERVE BECAUSE HE'S A MUSLIM According to the article published by NBC News, on Tuesday, "a Navy SEAL was hospitalized after a crash with another vehicle in Chantilly, Va., according to a news release from the Chantilly Police Department. The crash occurred at about 6:55 a.m. near the intersection of Valley Road and Greensboro Road." The release added that the driver of the vehicle, which was carrying seven people, including the SEAL, was seriously injured in the crash and that the Navy SEAL's injuries are not life-threatening. The officer wrote that "the SEAL was traveling westbound on Greensboro Road when he failed to negotiate a curve on Valley Road. A 1998 Subaru Legacy was traveling northbound and crossed into the path of the speeding SUV causing impact. The Subaru was moved to the side of the road and stopped." According to the release, the Virginia State Police Crash Reconstruction Team was called to the scene and the trooper writing the report said that there was no evidence of speeding or excessive speed prior to the crash. He added that "the driver of the SUV stated they were returning home from an evening of drinking." At the time of the accident, the SEAL was a member of SEAL Team Seven, the Navy's 7th Special Operations Unit, according to his official Navy biography. MAN REUNITES WITH ORIGINAL FATHER ca3bfb1094
