A new study from a London-based team claims that staves of ale were used to hold the back of the skull in place during surgery, potentially accounting for much of the humerus-skull deformity seen in mummies. The researchers analysed samples of ancient skulls and saw that the separation between the head and the rest of the body was more extreme in people buried with ale. This skull, found in a grave in West Germany, displays one of the extreme skull deformation that were associated with heavy drinking in ancient times (Image: Evgeny Shkaun Mummies buried with alcohol in the afterlife have more deformed skulls
