Visit our website: Your Phone Hacked By 'PhoneSocial', Says Your Data Was Swiped By Hackers The most important part of your Android smartphone is your data. And now it seems as though your data has been siphoned off by cyber attackers. This could impact all of your essential smartphone features, from sending out texts, emails and calls to sending out apps and websites through your web browser. The hackers managed to squeeze in an app called "PhoneSocial", which offers free utilities including a text message checking and browser extension, the Verge reported. And the app has found its way to the Play Store store, where users are mistakenly downloading it. "You have a message from the admins: 'Your data was stolen from us. It's an important warning for all users!'," the PhoneSocial developers wrote in an update. The app is definitely a prank, but it has shocked users with its malicious activity, believing it would be impossible to hack into your phone. The app not only sent a notification that your data has been stolen by hackers, but it also included a credit card payment request, which could help you lose your money and identity. And if you thought the apps

What's New in the Ghostery Dawn?

Ghostery Dawn is a privacy-oriented browser that specializes in filtering trackers from the currently opened webpage and allows you to decide which ones should be active in the future. Category: Web BrowserQ: FileNotFoundException from using FileInputStream I got a a FileInputStream that throws FileNotFoundException. As far as I understand there is a File inside the folder that I gave to the inputStream. My code is: FileInputStream fileInputStream = null; try { fileInputStream = new FileInputStream(new File("inputFile.xml")); } catch (FileNotFoundException e) { e.printStackTrace(); } I got an error on the last line. java.io.FileNotFoundException: inputFile.xml at java.io.FileInputStream.(FileInputStream.java:138) at java.io.FileInputStream.(FileInputStream.java:98) at package.myfile.setup.ClassName.Create(ClassName.java:130) at package.myfile.setup.ClassName.onClick(ClassName.java:30) I have set up the permissions for the inputFile.xml in the properties of the run configuration of my program. What am I doing wrong? A: If you have an absolute path to the file, it should work: FileInputStream fileInputStream = new FileInputStream("/inputFile.xml"); If the path is relative, then it may be relative to the current working directory. A: You might want to try: FileInputStream fileInputStream = new FileInputStream(File ("inputFile.xml")); Because the current working directory is the folder you started from. A: Try to use real path for your file input stream. For example if your path is: C:\Users\MyUser\Desktop\project\build\source\res\raw Then you can open it with that path: FileInputStream fileInputStream = new FileInputStream(new File("C:\\Users\\MyUser\\Desktop\\project\\build\\source\\res\\raw\\inputFile.xml")); The present invention relates
