Due to its popularity, there is a world of free Photoshop tutorials available online for beginners and professional users. These tutorials range from simple social media edits to highly advanced retouching for fashion and fine art. Like using any other computer application, the more you learn the more powerful Photoshop becomes. To make my experience with Photoshop better, I've organized the images from the beginning of my journey using Photoshop and grouped them into sets from the beginning of my career. The images are organized by name, and each set has a brief intro text that describes the image and sets up the image for the next set. Follow along and when you're finished, I want you to feel that you've earned a promotion. At the end of this section, I've got an offer you can't refuse. You'll become a Photoshop master. Starting Out In this first set, I introduce some basics of this program and show you how to work with layers. I cover lightroom and ACDSee, and I tell you about enhancing your images with the Photoshop brushes and Photoshop filters. After a short intro, I move right into the meat of the photo making process — the Layers panel and the panels within it, where I show you the best way to work with the dialog box. The next set, the Before After set, goes over the most important part of photo making: retouching. I show you how to edit photos using Photoshop's wonderful tools and color controls. Controlling Color Even if you can't afford expensive photo editing programs, editing images can be rewarding and challenging. The process of making these images required a lot of editing, and I wanted to capture the changes I made and show you how to make these changes yourself. If you are interested in making the changes to your images, the advanced edits set, the Photoshop Experience Set, is for you. Editing the World The Photoshop Experience set includes advanced edits for a broad range of tasks. The Dream set is great for those times you find yourself wanting to do something special. For a project in need of quick editing, the Fast Track Set is for you. Don't forget to check out my tutorials on the Tutor for Layers and the Photoshop Essential Skills Set as well. Q: Checking if a number was entered as a decimal and rounding to nearest 3 I have a function that returns the number of any decimal entered as the argument (e.g. 1,4,2.1., or 4.5) and I need to return the number of decimal places only if the number is entered as a decimal (e.g. 4.2345); if it's rounded to the nearest multiple of 0.1, I don't want to return the number of decimal places. I have found the following logic, but was wondering if there is a more efficient and cleaner way to write this? def myfunc(num): num = float(num) number_of_decimals = 0 if not(num): pass elif (int(num) == round(num, 3)) and (0
