Q: When to add the 2nd argument to Database.SQLExecute() method? In the following code snippet, I want to execute the same sql query in different database (If the current database doesn't have the needed data) - I only want to update the cursor if the result is different. However, the only way I know to "merge" 2 different results is to add an extra parameter to it.

Dim command As New SqlCommand() command.CommandType = CommandType.StoredProcedure command.Connection = con command.CommandText = "dbo.sprocGetData" command.Parameters.Add("@uid", SqlDbType.Int).Value = uid command.Parameters.Add("@pwd", SqlDbType.VarChar, 50).Value = pwd 'Execute the query
command.Parameters.Add("@sql", SqlDbType.VarChar, 500).Value = sql
