A: Change your regex to something like this: `.+?\` and your `preg_replace` to this: `.+?\` This way the dot will only match one character (dot, + or?). Alternatively, you could use `./+?/g` which will do the same thing. A note: if you use `/g` your result will also contain the line you're on. You can use `"i"` or `"m"` to make the character class non-greedy so it will match a minimum amount. `"m"` will make it match on the first character, `"i"` will make it match on the first and second, etc. Q: How to create a file directory using C# Good Afternoon, I am working on a Windows Phone 7.1.2 application that is supposed to create a file directory using C#. I have the following code:

//Create the folder var directory =
Path.Combine(Environment.GetFolderPath(Environment.SpecialFolder.Personal), "Folders", "Folder"); //Create the folder if it doesn't exist already if (!Directory.Exists(directory)) { Directory.CreateDirectory(directory); base.FolderImage.Source = new Uri(Directory.GetCurrentDirectory() + "/" + "Folder.png", UriKind.RelativeOrAbsolute); } But when I run the app it says that the folder was created but the path that it gave was:
C:\Windows\Tasks\Folder.png And that is the first problem. The second problem that I get is:
Unable to cast object of type 'System.Windows.Media.Imaging.BitmapImage' to type 'System.Windows.Media.Imaging.BitmapSource'. Is there any way to get the folder path in my app? A: You can also achieve this with the following code: var path =
Path.Combine(Environment.GetFolderPath(Environment.SpecialFolder.Personal), "F e79caf774b
