Python Streaming Server with TCPThe bromide ion can act as an effective contrast agent for high resolution 1H NMR measurements of the bromide concentration of whole blood. 1H NMR spectroscopy of blood samples is a noninvasive technique to analyze bromide metabolism in humans and is extensively used for this purpose. However, there is a possibility that the intrinsically small quantities of bromide in blood may cause chemical shift artefacts that are not visible in the spectra due to overlapping with the resonances of the much larger total H1 and H2 populations. We demonstrate here that, in fact, the bromide ion may serve as an
