“The technology is an effort to harness our universe’s gaming history through video games,” said Aleksandar Rakić, Senior Producer at EA Sports. “This is going to be the best version of FIFA.” The future also introduces other innovations, such as new animations for take-ons, assists and the new, ball-to-foot motion system, which makes dribbling and shot-shooting a more agile process. Other features include enhanced player models, improved ball physics, and the ability to focus on your opponent, or “focus mode.” With these developments, FIFA’s graphics are getting smarter, and its physics are getting better. Motion capture data collected from real players ensures that the ball and action will react realistically with the players, the pitch and the environment. FIFA and the UEFA Champions League are both already amongst the best, most authentic and accurate football experiences on the market. FIFA is revered for its huge range of features and features, and user experience. FIFA 22 is EA’s third-most-requested title in the past year, meaning football fans around the world are clamouring for a great FIFA experience that delivers the absolute best football gameplay on the market, year after year. The new full-body motion capture system, which captured the movements of 22 real-life players during a full-scale game for FIFA 22, is only possible as a result of the evolution of player modelling in game development and development of the motion capture suits (which are still something of a specialist area). Although these results are spectacular, using real-life player models to bring new gameplay experiences is just the beginning. In the coming years, we will likely see the live acquisition of even more player models through recording the movements of real players on the pitch. The full-body motion capture recordings made for the FIFA 22 game are the largest and most accurate ever made, and are sure to produce the best gameplay experience. The FIFA games are already amongst the most realistic football games, with FIFA Soccer 17 as one of the best experiences on the market. FIFA 18 is the most realistic simulation of any real-world sport, ever. We are confident that the enhancements to the physics and gameplay will result in the most authentic experience available. FIFA 20 is the best-selling sports title, and is regarded as the best sports game available. FIFA
