Using VST effects on Native Instruments Komplete. Endoscopic Endonasal Approach to Resect the Neuromas of the Pterygopalatine Fossa. To explore the techniques and outcomes of endoscopic endonasal resection (EEA) of the neuromas of the pterygopalatine fossa (PPF). We consecutively enrolled 41 patients with PPF neuromas who underwent EEA in our department from December 2013 to June 2016. After otologic examinations, the following distances were measured: the inferior border of the pterygopalatine fossa (PQ), the inferior boundary of the maxillary sinus, the lower boundary of the middle turbinate (MT) and olfactory cleft, the upper boundary of the pterygopalatine fossa, and the postoperative PQ. The rate of olfactory and intranasal infection after surgery was analyzed. Preoperative symptoms were alleviated in all 41 patients. Tumor size, Karnofsky Performance Status (KPS), as well as intraoperative and postoperative complications, recurrences and surgical success were evaluated and analyzed. The intraoperative and postoperative complications were nasal cavity hemorrhage (5.3%), epistaxis (2.4%), vestibular fistula (2.4%), hematoma (2.4%), and postoperative numbness (11.8%). There were no cases of damage to the optic nerves or medial maxillary sinuses. The mean follow-up time was 24.4 months (12-40 months). At follow-up, no recurrence was observed. The EEA technique is a safe and effective surgery, not only for the resection of the schwannomas and neurofibromas in the PPF, but also for the basal end plate and resection of the trigeminal nerve in the PPF. Is the Progressive left welcoming new members? Several Conservative members have jumped ship to the formerly independent Liberal Democrats, saying that the Liberal Democrats, a party with origins in the far left, was increasingly moving to the right of the political spectrum. The disillusioned Conservatives are however unhappy with their new Party

Any feedback and suggestions are much appreciated. Q: Paperclip with MongoDB: how to add FileField/ImageField to class without overwriting existing class attributes? I am using Heroku with Paperclip as the gem for uploading images. It works great; however, when I create a new class (let's call this ClassA) and add an image (or text or any other field that I put into the class) - because MongoDB does not have an image type, I need to add a FileField to the class. So then I would have something like this: class ClassA include

Mongoid::Document field :name, type: String field :image, type: FileField end but this forces me to change anything I put into the class with the additional file field. I am wondering if there is a way to write the above definition without adding a new field to the class and just pushing an image into a FileField. I was wondering if anyone had any ideas? Thank you for your help! A: You want to use the Mongoid::Document::Mapper class, described at For example: class ClassA include Mongoid::Document map do { name: String, image: FileField } end end Mapping works so that your schema is preserved. A file field is only required when an image is attached. Identification of the ovomucoid gene promoter and its promoter activity in transgenic tobacco. By using a set of oligonucleotides derived from the 5' flanking region of the ovomucoid gene (Ovomuc 1) of the silkworm, B. mori, we have successfully identified the promoter region of this gene by using a homologous cloning system for genomic DNA. The positions of restriction enzyme sites were conserved, and most of the 5'-flanking sequences of the gene were identified to be located in the region between positions -153 and +152 relative to the translational start site. The promoter activity of this region was examined in the transgenic tobacco plants. Transgenic tobacco plants expressed GUS gene 6d1f23a050
