A: I think there is something wrong with your sources. What is your Eclipse installation version, and are you also using Java 6? If so, you can replace your sources with the latest J2SE 6 version at: Transcription factor interaction: the novel role of the protein kinase R-like ER kinase in the regulation of gene transcription. The protein kinase R (PKR)-like ER kinase (PERK) and its homologues, PKR-like ER eukaryotic initiation factor 2alpha kinase (PERK1) and PKR-like ER kinase 2 (PERK2), function as intracellular protein kinases with ER (endoplasmic reticulum) stress sensor activity. After detection of potential ER stress in mammalian cells, the kinases become activated, phosphorylate translation initiation factor eIF2alpha on serine 51 and, consequently, attenuate the general protein synthesis. In addition, PERK and PERK1 inhibit cap-dependent translation through phosphorylation of the translation factor eIF4E on serine 209 and prevention of its binding to the mRNA cap structure. These effects are achieved by phosphorylation of the translation initiation factor eIF2alpha and stimulation of a specific protein kinase, eIF2 c6a93da74d
